INFINITY COACHING

Shealine Burks is a Secondary School Counselor and John Maxwell Certified Speaker, Teacher, and Coach. She has spent more than 22 years of her career edifying the lives of children, families, and staff members within the public school system in Missouri, Arkansas, and Texas. She has enjoyed every minute of her career serving others. Nothing gives her more joy than to see others grow and develop into who they aspire to be.

Easily affording her clients the ability to feel like they are talking to their best friend, her nonjudgmental approach has facilitated openness, understanding, and connection to one's purpose; releasing one's ability to reach life's goals. Shealine believes in the power of community utilizing a village approach synchronized with a personal touch. As a small town girl from Southeast Arkansas, her roots lie deep in faith, family, and community. These roots lay the foundation and impetus for growing healthy children, families, and communities. Her focus is laser sharp, and guides her mission to motivate and encourage every person to walk life's journey with confidence and purpose.

In March 2016, Shealine embraced Infinity Coaching as the next genesis in her career path because of her desire to reach a greater, global community and her need to go beyond the restrictions the public school setting provides. There was always so much more that she wanted to do and Infinity Coaching has given her the avenue to fulfill her passion and her mission to serve others through providing excellent service to all.

Infinity, the symbol of endlessness, reflects her unyielding desire to rebuild and reconnect families and communities. Her mantra in life is that by serving others, she is served. With a profound understanding in the power of encouragement, advocacy, and side-by-side service, Shealine is on a mission to touch you.
